U. S. NAVAL AUXILIARY AIR STATION REAM FIELD

"HELICOPTER CAPITAL OF THE WORLD"

The U.S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Ream Field is located approximately fourteen miles south of San Diego within the city limits of the city of Imperial Beach on the southern Boundary, and one-half mile east of the ocean.

Known throughout the Navy as "The Helicopter Capital of the World," Ream Field is the homeport for all Pacific Fleet Helicopter Squadrons and is the only Navy installation used solely for Fleet helicopters.

The history of Ream Field dates back to 1917 when the Army established "Aviation Field" on the current site. In 1918 it was re-named in honor of Army Major William Roy Ream, the first flying surgeon of the American Army and the first flight surgeon to be killed in an aircraft accident. The Navy commenced using Ream as an outlying practice field in the early 20's. In 1943, the present runways were built and in the following year, construction on the station's buildings commenced, station's buildings commenced,

Shortly after World War II, Ream Field was decommissioned. In 1951 it was recommissioned as an Auxiliary Landing Field; and then, in 1955, it was redesignated a Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

This proud, closely knit station is the homeport of six helicopter squadrons. Ream Field also supports a Naval Air Maintenance Training Group and a Fleet Airborne Electronics Training Unit.

It is important to note that all Navy helicopter squadrons on the West Coast are based at Ream Field.

Largest of the squadrons is Helicopter Combat Support Squadron ONE, HC-1, which operates five different models of helicopters. HC-1 was the first helicopter squadron to be formed in the Navy and is the largest helicopter squadron in the Navy today. While HC-1 does not deploy as a squadron, it deploys detachments throughout the Pacific area, including the aboard attack carriers, ice breakers and, upon special occasions, auxiliaries.

Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadrons 2, 4, 6, and 8, operate the SH-3A Anti Submarine Helicopter. These squadrons are on a continuing deployment rotation schedule where one squadron is always deployed to the Western Pacific. These squadrons are on constant operational training programs.

HS-10 is a replacement air group squadron training student pilots prior to their assignments to other Ream Field A.S.W. Squadrons.

Ream Field is currently undergoing a tremendous remodeling and rehabilitation program in connection with its facilities. A modern mess hall has recently been completed and a campus-style barracks capable of accommodating 540 men is nearing completion, with occupation set for the summer of 1967. Additionally, the older barracks are being redone to provide a more homelike atmosphere. Two and three men rooms with single tier beds, reading lights, TV-lounges and game rooms will offer more after-hours comfort for the single enlisted men.

For off-duty recreation, Ream Field has baseball diamonds, Roberts Park, a picnic area, complete with swimming pool and barbecue pits. Nightly movies, Clubs for officers, chief petty officers and other enlisted men also are available. A modern Navy Exchange, with a separate service station and a complete laundry service and dry-cleaning facilities are located on the base. A well-stocked library and a newly renovated bowling alley are well patronized.

The importance of helicopters in the current conflict in Vietnam has made Ream Field a highly important part of the overall complex of Naval Air.

MISSION

As a unit of Commander, Fleet Air San Diego, Ream Field's basic mission is to provide facilities for the housing, organization, training and the recreation of the Fleet Helicopter Squadrons.

HC-1 SQUADRON HISTORY

I elicopter Combat Support Squadron One, formerly known as Helicopter Utility Squadron One, was commissioned at NAS Lakehurst in 1948 as the Navy's first operational helicopter squadron. Shortly thereafter, the squadron was moved to NAS Miramar, San Diego where it achieved operational status, and in 1961 to its present location at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Ream Field, San Diego. The squadron was redesignated Helicopter Combat Support Squadron One on 1 July 1965 as it more accurately described the mission of the command. Since commissioning, the squadron's primary mission of air-sea rescue has remained unchanged. During the Korean Conflict, HC-1 pilots and crewmen were among the first into combat and pioneered new techniques of personnel rescue from behind enemy lines. For its "extraordinary heroism in action against enemy aggressor forces in Korea." HC-1 was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation and one of its pilots was decorated with the nation's highest award, the Medal of Honor.

Today, HC-1 is the largest and most active squadron of its type in the Navy. Its detachments provide helicopter services for every major ship in the Pacific Fleet from Antarctic bound icebreakers to modern attack carriers on patrol in the China Sea. Its responsibilities now extend over an area encompassing nearly a million square miles and as the versatility of the helicopter increases so do the demands for services. HC-1 accomplishes such diversified additional missions as ice reconnaissance and medical evacuation, logistic support, vertical replenishment and guided missile recovery. Yet, above all, the mission of HC-1 is the safeguarding of human life during times of peace or war. As of today, the "Angels" of Helicopter Combat Support Squadron One have successfully accomplished the rescue of over 1,000 military and civilian personnel primarily utilizing the UH-2A "Seasprite" and the UH-46A, our two jet-powered helicopters. Along with these two helicopters, the squadron uses the UH-34 "HUS," the H-19 "Horse," and the UH-13 "Bell" to

CDR J. E. WILLIAMS, Commanding Officer

HS-2... ITS PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE

CDR M. L. HOFFMAN, Executive Officer (Acting)

HS-2 was formed on 7 March, 1952 as the West Coast's first Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron. Its first Commanding Officer was Commander Edward Bayers, who had spent several years in helicopter research and development. Executive Officer was Lieutenant Commander W. G. Knapp, holder of Helicopter Card Number One. Twenty-seven pilots from HU-1 and supporting maintenance personnel formed the nucleus of HS-2.

The first helicopter that the squadron received was a HUP aircraft, built by Piasecki Aircraft Company and specially configured for anti-submarine warfare operations. The successor to the HUP was the HO4S (H-19), a more powerful helicopter designed and built primarily as an ASW aircraft by Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation.

In turn, the HO4S was replaced in May, 1956 by the HSS-1 (H-34); and a night and all weather capability was added with the arrival of the HSS-1N, a modification of the HSS-1, introduced into HS-2 in the spring of 1961.

The squadron made its first deployments in small detachments with HSS-1 aircraft. Shortly thereafter it made its first deployment as a unit, embarking aboard the USS PHILIPPINE SEA (CVS-47) on 5 January 1957. HS-2 later deployed aboard the USS YORK-TOWN (CVS-10), and is now regularly assigned to Carrier Air Group FIFTY-SEVEN aboard the USS HORNET (CVS-12).

The professional quality of the Squadron and the dedication of its men is reflected by its winning the coveted Navy "E" for combat efficiency and the Arnold J. Isbell trophy award, presented to the squadron in 1960 and 1964. HS-2 demonstrated its emphasis on safety by receiving the CNO Annual Safety Award in 1964.

HS-2 became the first Helicopter Anti-Submarine Warfare Squadron to make a deployment with the SH-3A aircraft, receiving the aircraft just prior to its 1962 Far East cruise.

The SH-3A is the first of the Navy's gas turbine-powered helicopters. Each of its two engines delivers 1250 horsepower. The main rotor has five blades and is equipped with an automatic folding system. The fuselage has a boat hull, facilitating emergency water landings. It measures just over 72 feet in flight configuration and can be loaded to a maximum gross weight of over 19,000 pounds. The crew consists of a pilot, co-pilot, and two sonar operators. The SH-3A is capable of speeds nearing 175 miles per hour and altitudes of over 10,000 feet.

The SH-3A, built by Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation, opens a new chapter in anti-submarine warfare. Fully equipped for day, night, and all-weather operations, it can stay on station considerably longer than any previous ASW helicopter, and carries an increased and varied ordnance load consisting of conventional and nuclear depth bombs and homing torpedos.

As a result of in-flight refueling techniques pioneered by HS-2 on its 1965-1966 Far East cruise, time on station is increased indefinitely, limited only by crew fatigue and necessary maintenance. Fuel is pumped from destroyers to the SH-30 hovering alongside in a simple operation that can deliver a full fuel load to the helicopter in a matter of minutes.

The squadron mission is to detect, identify, track, and, if necessary, destroy enemy submarines. Around-the-clock operations require maximum skill and proficiency of pilots and crewmen. Teamwork is an important aspect of sub-hunting operations, as the SH-3A often works with fixed wing S2 aircraft and destroyers.

A typical ASW flight includes two or three helicopters and requires flying at or below 150 feet altitude and hovering at 40 feet in the area of the submarine contact. Once in the hover, the sonarman lowers the sonar transducer and transmits sound energy into the water, which is returned as an echo as the sound bounces from the hull of the submarine. From this returning echo, range and bearing is computed, and the submarine's postion is pinpointed. At this point, the submerged object is either tracked or attacked by the helicopters in the flight or by accompanying S2 aircraft, or destroyers.

In addition, HS-2 SH-3A's may be called upon to perform functions including transfers of mail and personnel to isolated units of the task force, flying "angel" or plane guard flights near the carrier to aid in the event of an aircraft launch or recovery mishap, or rescuing downed flight personnel many miles from the carrier. New techniques are often required for new tasks, challenging the imagination and inventiveness of all HS-2 personnel.

The task of HS-2 officers and men is manifold. In our effort toward obtaining and maintaining the highest in operational readiness as a tactical unit, we must never lose sight of our national objectives and our responsibilities as individuals. Each and every officer and man must display the highest qualities in leadership, initiative and imagination if our way of life is to prevail. We in HS-2 have been given the finest equipment that money can buy. We will continue to use this equipment and ourselves in such a manner as to reflect credit, distinction, and honor upon the Navy and our country.

HELICOPTER ANTI-SUBMARINE SQUADRON FOUR HISTORY

CDR W. L. JENSEN, Commanding Officer

CDR H. W. EWY, Executive Officer

HS-4 was commissioned on 30 June 1952 at NAAS Ream Field, Imperial Beach, California. It was one of the original four HS squadrons implementing a new Anti-Submarine concept.

Leading the squadron during its infancy was CDR W. G. Knapp, the Navy's first designated helicopter pilot. Its first helicopter was a lonely old H03S. From this inauspicious beginning, a capable leader and a "Can-Do" spirit, sprang the potent HS-4 of today.

Many skippers have passed this way, each bringing with them new ideas and vitality and leaving behind a squadron richer in knowledge, skill and experience. The squadron has flown through the years the HO3S, HUP, HO4S, HSS, HSS-1N and SH-3A type aircraft.

Being the first ASW helo squadron to deploy aboard a carrier, the USS RENDOVA (CVE-114), it was equally appropriate that HS-4 should be the first helo squadron on the West Coast with a fully operational around-the-clock capability. This was attained in FY 1961, a memorable year for HS-4. During this year HS-4 was awarded the AIRPAC "E" and the coveted Isbell Trophy for ASW excellence. HS-4 was the AIRPAC nominee for the CNO Safety Award in 1961 and flew its 10,000th accident-free hour during August 1961. In March 1962, HS-4 completed its first deployment to WESTPAC as an operational, aroundthe-clock helicopter squadron. During the cruise, impressive statistics were compiled. In operations in the Hawaiian area, HS-4 helos tracked a submarine continuously for 36 hours . . . a signflicant first. HS-4 proved its all-weather capability in many extended operations. At one critique, COMCARDIV 19 remarked to COMSEVENTHFLT, "The weather was so bad only the submarine and HS-4 could operate."

During their first WESTPAC cruise with the SH-3A "Sea King," ending May 1965, the "Black Knights" continued to distinguish themselves as a professional ASW unit.

From the first day of the ORE until touchdown at Ream Field in May, HS-4 surpassed all previous records. During the ORE in Hawaiian waters the "Black Knights" contributed to COMASWGRU3, and Air Group 55 efforts aboard the Yorktown, receiving the highest evaluation ever received by an ASW Group. There were many submarine kills and defensively it was another first, since during the entire three weeks of evaluation there was not one successful attack against the "Fighting Lady" against the "Fighting Lady."

January 1966 marked the start of a WESTPAC cruise never to be forgotten in squadron history. While operating in the waters of the Gulf of Tonkin, HS-4 personnel accounted for the rescue of twenty-four downed airmen. In some cases, these rescues involved exposure of pilots and crew to intense enemy small arms and mortar fire. In recognition of exceptional individual heroism and valor, four Silver Stars, seven Distinguished Flying Crosses, fifty-seven Air Medals and thirty-three CINCPACFLT and COMSEVENTHFLT Commendations were awarded to crew members of the "Black Knights."

The arrival of the first SH-3D on the West Coast in late December marked the beginning of a new era for the squadron.

The achievements of the past fourteen years are goals of which every member of the squadron is justly proud.

THE HISTORY OF HELICOPTER ANTI-SUBMARINE SQUADRON SIX

CDR W. H. LOCKWOOD, Commanding Officer

CDR A. D. FOX, Executive Officer

Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron SIX (HS-6) was originally commissioned on June 1, 1956 aboard the USS PRINCETON (CVS-37) in the Pacific, midway between Formosa and Okinawa.

HS-6, one of three squadrons comprising Carrier Anti-Submarine Air Group Fifty-Three, has the mission of "denying the enemy effective use of their submarines." To accomplish this task the squadron utilizes the Sikorsky SH-3A "Sea King," a twin turbine, fully instrumented, all weather helicopter. These aircraft, the fifth of a line, have brought the helicopter squadron to the forefront in the anti-submarine role. When originally commissioned, squadron pilots flew the HD4S helicopter. Those, however, were replaced by the HSS-1 in time for the squadrons first full scale deployment, which took place in 1958, aboard the USS PHILIPPINE SEA (CVS-47).

Subsequent to this deployment the squadron received the HSS-1N, a helicopter developed especially for "around the clock" operations which alleviated HS squadrons of the "daylight only" stigma. This aircraft proved its capability on the squadron's next deployment aboard the USS KEARSARGE (CVS-33) in 1959

The squadron joined Carrier Anti-Submarine Air Group Fifty-Three in April 1960 and in 1961 again deployed to the Western Pacific aboard the USS KEARSARGE.

The first SH-3A was received March 1962 and greatly increased squadron capabilities for the 1962-1963 cruise. During the early part of this deployment the squadron participated in the recoveries of the astronauts Walter M. Schirra and L. Gordon Cooper.

The next deployment began in March 1964 and found HS-6 supporting the Seventh Fleet forces in the South China Sea. During these special operations, precipitated by hostile action in the Gulf of Tonkin, HS-6 flew what then was a record 1292 hours during a thirty day period.

HS-6 returned to CONUS in December 1964 to enter their normal training cycle. During this period the squadron won the COMNAVAIRPAC Battle Efficiency "E" and the CNO Safety Award. It also became the first squadron to receive the "second generation" SH3A with the new and versatile AQS-13 sonar. This new equipment, after being refined by the squadron, is again proving the role of the ASW heliconter.

ron, is again proving the role of the ASW helicopter.

HS-6 embarked in USS KEARSARGE June 9, 1966 as a member of CTG 70.4/77.9 for a Western Pacific deployment. In addition to performing its regular anti-submarine warfare role, the squadron participated in various other activities, the most noteworthy of which is the Seven Nation Conference at Manila. Here logistic, medical, and security support was provided for the President, his party, and the American Embassy. Over-shadowing this, HS-6 again distinguished itself by rescuing sixteen aviators downed in the Vietnam area. For this work the squadron was nominated for the Presidential Unit Citation.

The squadron returned to the United States December 20, 1966, where it is presently undergoing extensive training for its next deployment to the Far East.

CDR D. L. HUGHES, Commanding Officer

HISTORY OF HS-8

CDR E. MASSA, Executive Officer

Commissioned as an operational fleet Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron on 1 June 1956, HS-8 first Commanding Officer was LCDR R. WEST. LCDR WEST served as acting C.O. until the arrival of CDR Louis F. KNIGHT in July 1956. CDR Alton W. PAYNE held the post of Executive Officer during the first year of operation.

Based at NAAS Ream Field, Imperial Beach, California, the new squadron began an extensive training program to ready her crew for the future. Within a year the squadron was ready for development in the fleet.

July 12, 1957, saw HELANTISUBRON EIGHT depart for the Far East aboard the USS PRINCETON (CVS-37) after numerous training cruises.

While operating near the Philippine Islands, HS-8 was called upon to airlift food and medical supplies to a company of flooded Marine Engineers, high in the

During late December 1958 the PRINCETON and HELANTISUBRON EIGHT were rushed to Singapore to receive food and medical supplies bound for flood-stricken Ceylon. Working in conjunction with British, Marine, and Navy Commands, a record number of tons of supplies was flown from the ship to the waterlocked people. For this mission "Operation Mercy," the squadron was commended by the Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles.

In early January, 1958, CDR L. F. KNIGHT was relieved as Commanding Officer by CDR A. W. PAYNE. CDR KNIGHT went to serve as the PRINCETON'S Air Operations Officer, as CDR PAYNE brought the squadron home to San Diego a month later.

Commander George HAINES and Commander Harold KEST served as Executive Officers until the arrival of Commander Alvin F. EMIG.

Change of Command ceremonies took place early in January 1959 when Commander PAYNE received orders to a post in BUAER and Commander EMIG became the Commanding Officer of the Squadron. At this time the squadron was anticipating the arrival of the new Executive Officer, Commander William C. BUTLER. Commander BUTLER arrived in February and took over as Exec. Preparations were in progress for the coming cruise to WESTPAC aboard the USS HORNET (CVS-12).

April saw the HORNET leave the outer buoy at NAS North Island again bound for the Far East. HS-8 returned to Ream in October, 1959, landing her first helo on the morning of the 9th.

After a relatively short leave period, the training cycle once more got into full swing. Christmas 1959 brought the annual Children's party for which HS-8 has become well known throughout the San Diego area.

Change of command ceremonies were held in February for Commander BUTLER to relieve Commander EMIG. The training cycle was completed in a year and Commander BUTLER took the squadron aboard the USS BENNINGTON (CVS-20) to begin its third deployment. During this cruise the squadron participated in "Operation Handelasp" by collecting 1500 pounds of clothing in San Diego and taking it to refugees in Hong Kong. The squadron, in January 1961, passed another milestone by increasing their safety record to over 10,000 accident free flight hours, marking over two years of accident free flying. In change of Command ceremonies held aboard the USS BEN-NINGTON (CVS-20) in February 1961, Commander W. "L" AYDELOTT relieved Commander BUTLER as Commanding Officer, LCDR O. N. WILLIAMS became acting Exec., while awaiting arrival of Commander C. H. KLINDWORTH the following May.

In March 1961, HS-8 was relieved from its 7th Fleet duties, and returned to NAAS Ream Field in April. An immediate transition was begun from the "old" HSS-1 helicopter into the new and more sophisticated HSS-1N. The short cruises lasted through November 1961, and then on 6 January 1962, the squadron departed for the Western Pacific.

While in Subic Bay, P.I., Commander C. H. Klindworth relieved Commander Aydelott as Commanding Officer on 6 April 1962. Commander R. G. Baker became acting Executive Officer until Commander J. R.

Evans arrived the following month.

Early in May the BENNINGTON and HS-8 steamed off the coast of South Vietnam. In late July 1962, the squadron returned to NAAS Ream Field. In December 1962, the squadron received its first SH-3A Sea King Twin Turbine powered helicopter and flew its 10.000th accident free flight hour. On 22 March 1963, the squadron received the COMNAV-AIRPAC Battle Efficiency Plaque.

The squadron's most recent activities since returning from deployment in October 1965 have included the development of improvements to inflight refueling from destroyers, helicopter control of the Dash drone helicopter and the Ryan Fire Fish target boat, and a possible record for perhaps the longest helo medical evacuation of some twelve hundred miles. The summer of 1966 was a busy one for the squadron with shipboard and shore training in preparation for deployment to the Western Pacific in November 1966.

HELANTISUBRON TEN HISTORY

CDR D. J. HAYES, Commanding Officer

CDR R. S. BRUNING, Executive Officer

Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron TEN (HS-10) was commissioned on 30 June 1960 to train replacement helicopter pilots, aircrewmen, and maintenance personnel for further duty in the helicopter anti-submarine squadrons of the Pacific Fleet.

Commander L. W. Metzger III, U.S. Navy, Commander Carrier Anti-Submarine Air Group 51 (COMCVSG-51) commissioned HS-10, having the additional duty at that time as Commanding Officer. Commander Leroy G. Wade assumed command of HS-10 on 2 September 1960 after serving a tour of duty as Commanding Officer of HS-4. Commander Wade was relieved by Commander W. L. Bennett, former Commanding Officer of HS-3, on 1 September 1961. Commander A. E. Monahan, the former Commanding Officer of HS-4 relieved Commander Bennett as the Commanding Officer of HS-10 on 9 July 1962. Commander Monahan was the first HS-10 trained officer to return as the Commanding Officer of the squadron. Commander O. R. Toon relieved Commander Monahan on 14 September 1962 bringing the latest in fleet experience to HS-10 from his tour as Commanding Officer of HS-2. Commander H. V. Pepper, former Commanding Officer of HS-11 relieved Commander Toon on 30 August 1963. Commander M. R. Starr, former Commanding Officer of HS-6, relieved Commander Pepper on 22 January 1965. In December 1965. In December 1965 Commander Starr was relieved by Commander G. E. Smith, former Commanding Officer of HS-8. In June of 1966 Commander Smith was relieved as Commanding Officer of HS-10 by Commander D. J. Hayes, the former Commanding Officer of HS-2.

As a unit of Fleet Air San Diego, HS-10 is charged with the responsibility of training all helicopter pilots, aircrewmen, and maintenance personnel for further transfer to Pacific Fleet HS squadrons.

Since commissioning, a total of 545 pilots, 439 aircrewmen, and 936 maintenance personnel have been trained. In addition, flight training has been afforded prospective Commanding Officer of Amphibious Assault Ships, Prospective Air Group Commander, U.S. Army, Marine Corps, and foreign pilots and maintenance personnel from Chile, Brazil, Japan, Italy, and Canada.

Flying the SH-3A helicopter, the replacement pilot receives the latest in anti-submarine warfare tactics employing the newest in the weapons systems. With no small amount of just pride HS-10 can boast of supplying the Pacific Fleet Anti-Submarine Warfare helo squadrons with all their pilots and personnel.

Now in its sixth year of operation, under the present command of Commander D. J. HAYES, Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron TEN (HS-10) boasts, with justifiable pride, of training the best to keep our Pacific Fleet Anti-Submarine Squadron in readiness.

CHULA VISTA

2nd Largest City in Dynamic San Diego County

Chula Vista is located eight miles south of San Diego on the shores of San Diego Bay in the extreme southwestern corner of California. The second largest city in San Diego County, it is a modern, attractive, spaciously-planned community of more than 50,000 people, situated on the green plain between the bay and the foothills of the Laguna Mountains. Chula Vista means "pretty view" in Spanish and the city well lives up to its name.

As part of the dynamic growth pattern of southwestern California, the fastest growing section of the nation, Chula Vista shares in the many natural advantages of this varied, exciting region of family living, recreation and industry. Chula Vista has trebled its population twice in each of the last two decades and this solid growth has been based on a unique balance of industry, commerce, agriculture and retirement.

Chula Vista is a creative city, moving forward but retaining the grace and pleasantness of unhurried living. While population figures have surged upward, civic leaders have met the needs of a growing city with excellent schools, fine parks, efficient fire and police protection and other municipal services.

One of the most constructive projects of the city is the development of the tidelands for industrial purposes. Hundreds of new acres are being dredged from the South Bay to provide new industrial sites. Proposed port facilities will enable world shipping to come directly to Chula Vista.

Chula Vista, home of the Rohr Corporation and other firms, offers many advantages for industry. Nearness to a growing California and Western market, excellent rail, truck, plane and marine transportation — and an abundance of electricity, gas and other utilities are strong inducements. A skilled labor pool and unusually fine educational facilities are additional advantages.

Chula Vista is a wonderful place to visit, a better place to live. It has one of the most enviable climates in the world — with clear, sunny weather cooled by ocean breezes. Recreational opportunities abound in the nearby Pacific, mountains and desert play areas — and Mexico is minutes away across a friendly border.

NATIONAL CITY

A city of pleasant living in a suburban community of rolling terrain with panoramas of bay and mountains. Located on San Diego Bay, National City shares its northern boundary with San Diego and is just ten minutes from either downtown San Diego or the Mexican Border.

Homes are built to take advantage of the gracious outdoor living which is possible during the greater part of the year. Recent housing developments have made attractive homes available to moderate-income families. The climate is remarkably mild and equable and compares favorably with some of the world's most famed climates. The prevailing winds are tempered by the Pacific Ocean, with the result that summers are cool and winters warm in comparison with other places along the same general latitude. Temperatures along the coast have little variation between the maximum and minimum, with National City having only a variation of 14° from its annual average of 63.4°. As on the rest of the Pacific Coast, a dominant characteristic of spring and summer is the night-time and early morning cloudiness. Low clouds form regularly and frequently extend inland over the coastal valleys and foothills, but they usually dissipate during the morning, leaving the afternoons generally clear. Visibilities are good as a rule with sunshine plentiful.

National City offers complete educational facilities, including eight elementary schools, two junior high schools, one high school, three parochial schools and an outstanding adult education program. College and university facilities are situated within commuting distance, with a junior college just a few minutes drive from National City.

National City's new $1-million Civic Center.

THE RED FOX

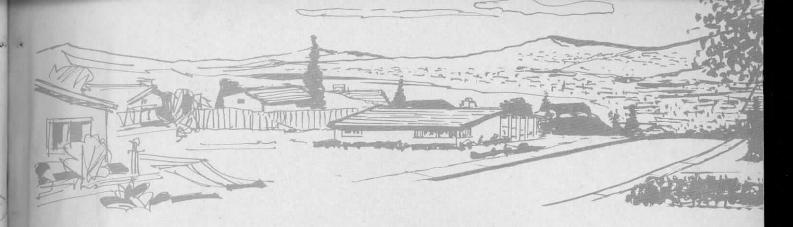

The Red Fox was an old inn in Surrey, England, and dates from about 1560. The three small, original rooms, slightly different in design, have been combined to form a spacious "tap room." The bar, back-bar and the trim around the doors with the interesting, small carved figures, all come from Charles of London, and date 1560. The paneling in Tudor. The fireplace panel, with its finely carved over mantel, bears the date 1642. The three arched panels tell the story of Rebecca and Isaac as found in Genesis, Chapters 24 and 27.

The room was dismantled in 1926 and shipped to the United States for the petite blonde cinema actress, Marion Davies, who was at the height of her career popularity. Beach homes were a must for the movie colony of those halcyon days. So, when Miss Davies decided that the song of the surf was the requirement for quiet nights of relaxation from studio demands, these rooms were dismantled and shipped across the Atlantic Ocean in sections, and thence across America to be completely rebuilt at the "Ocean House." Approximately ten years ago, this property was sold and Miss Davies' "Ocean House" was converted into a hotel.

Some time later, this property was dismantled and the Red Fox Room was placed in storage. It is from this source that the Red Fox has finally found its resting place in the Lafayette Hotel in San Diego, to once again be admired as such a beautiful room should be.
