

My observations after participating in this rescue are:

(1) The use of .38 caliber flares is an excellent aid in finding a survivor; (2) the use of reflective tape on the helmet-- survivor's helmet was entirely taped, is a good aid in keeping him in sight on dark nights; (3) use of a single matrix light is a marginal value.